Fire at 3:25 A. M. Ruins DeWitt House Interior; Cold, Snow Hamper Fight

First Alarm of Year in Response to Blaze in Apartment of E. D. Forrester—Child Removed From House.

TRAFFIC SNARL

Police Officers Have Hands Full as Revelers Add Fire to Celebration.

Kingston's first fire of the New Year was rung in this morning at 3:25 o'clock, when a blaze, which started on the second floor, was discovered in the house owned by William C. DeWitt, former postmaster, at the corner of Clinton avenue and Pearl street. The fire started in a bedroom of an apartment occupied by Edward D. Forrester, dispatcher for the Greyhound Bus Lines, apparently in the neighborhood of an overstuffed arm chair, spread throughout the bedroom and then broke through the ceiling into an attic room, which was also burning. The intense heat generated also spread through the second floor generally, scorching and blistering furniture and draperies. The blaze destroyed the interior and furnishings of the room, burned an attic room and damaged the entire house interior from smoke, with some water damage.

Equipment Saved.
The first floor apartment underneath the room in which the fire started is occupied by A. M. Buckett as a beauty parlor, but prompt work in covering equipment there with salvage covers saved the equipment from any considerable damage. The walls were damaged some by water. There was little damage, if any, to the other first floor apartment, occupied by John DeWitt, except as it was affected by the intense smoke that spread throughout the entire house.

Removes Child
Forrester was not at home when the fire started, but Mr. DeWitt, who was at home in his apartment downstairs, saw the flames, which broke through the upstairs bedroom window. He tried to make his way up the stairs, but found the stairwell filled with smoke. He removed his child to a place of safety and gave the alarm.

Snow, Cold Hamper Work
Firemen were hampered in their work by the driving snow and 10-degree cold. Water from the hoses froze on the street and made driving treacherous.

Officers Under Hazards
The traffic officers were under great hazards, because heavy frost coated the windshields of most cars. Crowds of revelers added to the confusion by stopping their vehicles as close as possible to the fire zone.

Three lines of hose were laid under direction of Chief Joseph Murphy, who took charge of the fire. It was around 6:30 o'clock this morning before the final clean-up work was completed.

The chief said that he was unable to give any estimate of the damage this morning.

INTERLOCUTORY DECREE OF DIVORCE GRANTED

Justice Harry E. Schrick has granted an interlocutory decree of divorce in an action brought by Catherine Karas Myer against Joseph W. Myer of Kingston. Maurice A. Baker appeared for plaintiff. The parties were married at Wurts Street Baptist Church, this city, on February 14, 1936.

Plaintiff charged misconduct with an unknown person on August 1, 1937, at a sand bank near the Kingston Hotel, and that she had been guilty of adultery with a person named William Van Steenburgh and William Thompson.

By the decree the plaintiff is required to pay the costs of the litigation to again marry. The interlocutory decree will become final in three months.

Chimney Fire in Wilbur
Shortly before 7 o'clock P. M. today evening the fire department responded to a call from Box 30 for a chimney fire in the house of James Collins on Rodney street.

Explosion Razes Disch's Tavern

And this is all that is left of Frank Disch's tavern on Broadway, corner of Cornell street, early today morning. The explosion at 1:35 a. m. not only demolished the tavern but rocked other buildings in the vicinity, breaking windows and doing other damage. The Chief Joseph L. Murphy, whose men were called to quench fire that broke out, and engineers of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., are investigating to find the cause of the explosion.

CHURCHES SHOWING SPIRIT OF COOPERATION

Steadily in recent years Christian churches of different denominations have been cooperating more and more in services and in various forms of work. This tendency was emphasized by the conferences at Oxford and Edgemoor last summer, where delegates from 120 communities in 53 countries met together and considered how they might think and work in mutual cooperation. The churches of Kingston have tried to develop this spirit of unity in service, and under the auspices of the Kingston Ministerial Association have planned for Monday evening a union service in St. James M. E. Church. The speaker is to be the Rev. Dr. George E. Dawkins, pastor of the First Baptist Peddie Memorial Church of Newark, N. J., and he is an outstanding pulpit orator. The church choirs are all requested to unite in the musical service and to meet in St. James Sunday School room promptly at 7 o'clock. The meeting will open the Week of Prayer, and on some other nights during the week many of the churches will have services of their own for the deepening of the spiritual life. Automobile killing still continues in New York state. The reckless drivers who take pride in speed and clean shaves continue on the job—that is, those of them who have not been killed. Prudence steps aside for recklessness when speed is desired. Even Old Man Depression didn't shoot Santa Claus.

Cochin China Rich Men

Number Wives by Dozen In Cochin China marriage rites are comparative simple, except in the case of the Catholic Annamites, who have abandoned the old rituals for the marriage performed by priests. Cochin China has first and second degree marriages, and mandarin may have up to 100 wives if they are rich enough. In fact, writes Alex Small, Paris correspondent in the Chicago Tribune, polygamy is honored and unless he has many wives a mandarin may be considered to lack prestige—or money. There can be only one first-rank wife at a time, but second rankers may take first rank if the first wife dies or is divorced, and each moves up one rank to the top places. In some quarters of Cochin China under judiciary regime, marriage must be performed by officers of the civil state, and Christians there have only one wife. Among wealthy mandarins, only first-rank wives live with their husbands, the second rankers being housed separately and can be visited by such husbands only during the daytime.

Standard Gauge R. R. Track

The standard gauge of railroad track in the United States, that is, the distance between the inside of the heads of the rails, is 4 feet 8 1/2 inches. This measurement is apparently the same as the prevailing gauge of road wagon wheels when railroads came into existence. One railroad, the Southern, is laid with a 4 foot 9 inch gauge, but this small variation is unimportant. It is also the general custom to widen the gauge 1/4 inch or more on sharp curves. The standard of 4 feet, 8 1/2 inches was not always general in this country. In the early days there were various gauges and their change to standard was a gradual development, brought about principally by the joining of small independent lines into larger systems. The original use of the 4 foot 8 1/2 inch gauge in America was introduced by its use in England. It is the standard gauge, also, for most of Europe except Russia and Spain.

Good morning, my dear, so you're just sit and wait, your references state: you are prosperous, happy, labeled non-scrappy.

And Time, the vague thief, calls you a "new leaf."

Excuse our broad laughter, but twelve months hereafter, spoken and hoary you'll be the old story;

And Time, the sad sage, dubs just a soiled page.

And are the wheels of progress bber-tired?

Another Year

The old year is done, with a new year ahead

Saw people laugh, I heard people cry.

Saw people live, I saw people die.

Added some friends to the good ones I had;

Got many breaks, some were good, some were bad.

Felt arms around me, heard tender words said;

Garage Man—One and one-half cents.

Customer—How much is that in American money?

This Is My Wish for You

Time has come for each of us to take an inventory.

Now, some compute their wealth in gold—and some in fame and glory.

Figuring my gains—and losses—as this new year we dare, count my wealth—and find that I'm a millionaire.

I need no castles—fame—or gold to make the days complete.

And friends supply my every need. To me, life's very sweet.

And here's my New Year wish for you—(the finest there could be)—

For your friends always prove as true as mine have been to me! —Lyla Myers

Sights And Sounds

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Most trite of film musical settings is backstage where the show must go on, and on and on. A picture choosing this setting starts under a handicap it must work hard to overcome. It is to the credit of "You're a Sweetheart" that it entertains and seldom has to work too hard to do it.

The picture, starring Alice Faye with George Murphy, has so much that a musical should have that its total effect is quite pleasant. Humorous tunes, fine settings, good dancing, good "specialties," a share of freshness in "stage" and situations, and general brightness and good humor characterize the piece.

Universal borrowed its headlines (Miss Faye and Director David Butler from 20th Century-Fox, Murphy from Metro), and injected into the proceedings its own and other borrowed talent—Ken Murray and his radio companion Oswald, Andy Devine, Frank Jenks, Frances Hunt, and Casper Reardon, who does things to a harp.

The final "production number"—a murder trial in swing time—is the smartest of several. Good gag; Andy Devine proving to Oswald that seven times 13 is 28.

Myrna Loy In Bright Comedy

Often film titles are changed for no reason, but "The Four Men" has become "Man-Proof" for good cause, as a note from Metro explains—in the final script there weren't any Marys.

Despite this lack, "Man-Proof" unfolds as a smartly diverting comedy of modern manners and morals, a little on the sophisticated side but with plenty of mass appeal.

Myrna Loy loses Walter Pidgeon to Rosalind Russell, but plans to recapture him after their honeymoon. She will be very above-board about it, and as frank as she is in discussing the situation with Nana Bryant, her wise and modern mother who merely suggests the procedure would be unfortunate.

So Myrna gets a job instead, and is convinced she doesn't love Walter any more—until the "beautiful friendship" they all decide upon leads to a revival of the flame. Complications then are both amusing and dramatic, resolved only when Myrna and Franchot Tone, who has been her cold and comfort and lightly cynical counsel, realize what the audience suspected all along—that they're more than fond of each other, despite spats and quarrels.

Richard Thorpe's direction and topnotch performances by the four principals further insure "Man-Proof" against dullness. Scenes of Miss Loy on a polite binge to drown her love sorrow are a comedy highlight.

Broadway—"Rosalie." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's latest big money extravaganza comes to the Broadway in a glittering array of expensive settings and high salaried stars. This million dollar production that centers around a singing cadet and a dancing princess is an elaborate, tuneful and brilliant spectacle set to some of the year's best music. Light songs by Cole Porter enliven the score and the singing of Nelson Eddy plus the dancing of Eleanor Powell leaves little to be desired from an entertainment standpoint. Others in the cast are Frank Morgan, Edna May Oliver, Lona Massey and Billy Gilbert. W. S. Van Dyke directed this screen musical and the script was written by William Anthony McGuire.

Kingston—"True Confession." Carole Lombard, ace actress of the new trend to rollicking, hard hitting comedy productions, is again at her best in this daffy and humorously dialogued play that concerns itself with a heroine who makes a pastime of lying her way in and out of trouble. The plot centers around a killing and a murder trial with Miss Lombard getting herself enmeshed in one trying circumstance after another. But the person who steals the show is John Barrymore for he is perfect in the role of an amateur criminologist. The cast includes Fred MacMurray, Lona Massey, Porter Hall, Edgar Kennedy, Fritz feld, Lynn Overman, Toby Wing and Tommy Dugan. Claude Binyon wrote this comedy sensation and Wesley Ruggles directed.

Orpheum—"Woman Wise" and Hollywood—"Cowboy." The New Year's attraction at the Orpheum

moving melodrama of a cowman is a double feature program with Rochelle Hudson starred in the first drama that tells of the joy and sorrows of romance while George O'Brien is the main play er in the second offering, a fast film star who proves his ability to cope with desperate situations in real life as well as act them in the screen.

1/2 cup broken pecans
4 egg whites, beaten

Cream butter and sugar. Add milk, extracts, salt, flour and baking powder. Beat together for one minute. Add rest of the ingredients and mix lightly. Pour into loaf pan lined with waxed paper. Sprinkle top of loaf with one-fourth of a cup of chopped candied fruit and one-fourth of a cup of chopped citron. Bake for one hour in a moderately slow oven.

Little Helps For Housewives

Last-minute Christmas gifts may be made by filling colorful pottery bowls or unusual-shaped jars with orange marmalade, grapefruit butter or date conserve.

A novelty taffy will appeal to children. Braid together two taffies of different color and flavor. Each must be flavored and colored before it is pulled. It may then be braided and left in long strands or cut into two-inch strips.

In baking fruit or wedding cakes which require long, slow cooking, place a shallow pan filled with water in the oven. The water will help keep the cakes moist and give a glaze to their surfaces. Each cake should be allowed to cool in the pan in which it was baked.

Eggnog will improve in flavor if it is allowed to "ripen" a couple of days in a cold place. It may be stored in quart jars.

In serving new foods to a young child begin with a small portion of each food and arrange it as attractively as possible. Then gradually work up to large portions.

Surround the Christmas goose with large, cooked carrots hollowed out and filled with creamed turnips and peas.

To make candy rolls, shape beaten penoche or old-fashioned caramels into a one-inch roll. Sprinkle the roll with coconut, chocolate shot or broken nuts and cut into one-inch slices. Fancier rolls may be made by flattening the candy, and spreading it with nuts or other confections before rolling.

Chocolate used in cooked or uncooked frosting should be cooled after it is melted. Otherwise it may cause the frosting to become too thin.

A "polenta" (Indian porridge) may be made by adding one cup of chopped meat, fish, fowl or grated cheese to three cups of hot cornmeal mush. Pour the combination into a pan to mold. Then cut into slices. Roll each slice in flour or cornmeal and brown it well in fat heated in a frying pan. Serve with left-over gravy, sauce or a creamed mixture.

Foods intended to be eaten with the fingers should be browned in the oven or on the broiler. Snacks to be eaten with forks may be sautéed in a small quantity of butter.

To whip evaporated milk. Cover the cans with two inches of cold water; slowly bring to a boil and let boil for five minutes. Cool and chill the cans thoroughly. Then pour the milk into a cold bowl and whip it with a cold beater.

Lemon juice sprinkled over fresh mushrooms during the cooking, in the proportion of half a teaspoonful of juice to a cup of mushrooms, will help keep them from turning dark if the mushrooms are not over-cooked.

Add one-fourth of a teaspoonful of lemon juice to each cup of heavy cream to hasten the whipping process.

To prevent taffy and other sticky candies from becoming soft, wrap each piece in waxed

You'll Be Wearing Stripes At The Beach Next Summer

GAYADERE STRIPES

Silhouetted white gayaderes stripes running horizontally across black pique set the seal of 1938 on this resort frock. A brief bolero covers the low-cut sun back of the dress.

RAINBOW STRIPES

These stripes, in multi-colored rainbow design, pattern a short beach coat of cotton balbrord and its attached, peaked hood. The coat has a nipped-in waistline and full, peasant skirt.

Stripes are the news in the gay cottons which appear in this season's beach and resort clothes—harbingers of the summer playtime mode.

The spotlight has focused more brightly than ever on resort fashions this year, since women have come to regard winter clothes for the south as important indicators of summer styles for the north. Many women will buy July's play togs well in advance.

Gayaderes Effects Used

This year's stripes are new and different. Those featured in short, full-skirted beach coats at the recent New York fashion show of the Cotton Textile Institute were multi-colored rainbow designs or gayaderes effects (patterned bands running horizontally). Another gay group of cottons were splashed with Mexican pottery motifs or bright patterns of starfish and seashells.

In general, this year's sports cottons are less rustic in effect and finer in texture than last year's. Ribbs, cords and modified shub weaves in the new muted colors (soft greens, blues and desert hues) are all important.

Upholstery Satin

Novel fabrics for nonchalant evening clothes feature striped dotted swisses and dull-surfaced cotton upholstery satin.

Woods reflect a trend for smoother, more casual weaves and softer muted colors. Homespuns, cashmere weaves and sheer porous dress wools are exceedingly smart.

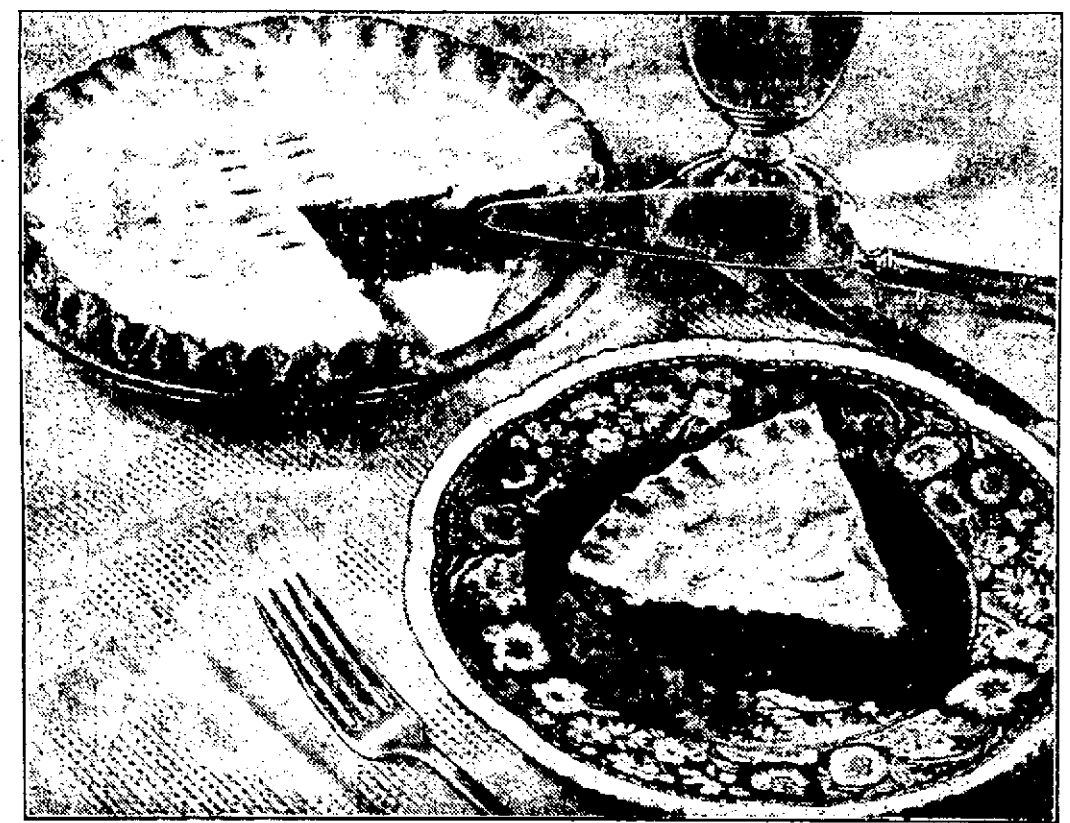

Silks appear in new "swing and swaggar" printed designs (floral sprays such as lilies of the valley swooping across a colored background). Small, gaily-colored floral prints on dark grounds are also chic.

PATTERN OF HATS

Something new and amusing in beach coats is this one of bright red cotton pique printed with big blue-and-white polka-dotted hats. The same design is repeated on the wide brimmed pique sun hat. Notice the new beach sandals with cork soles three inches thick.

The Meat Pie that Came Over the Ocean from Scotland

This Scotch meat pie made of ground beef, onion and tomato is a tasty dish for a cold night.

It's Easy To Make and Is Especially Good For Sunday Night Suppers

by Dorothy Greig

WHEN we were small, Sunday night supper at Scotch grandmother's house was the big event of the week. It was clan night, the night grandmother gathered her children and her grandchildren around the family board. Truly a sizable host sat down, with grandfather beaming on his hair from one end of the table and at the other, grandmother keeping an ever watchful eye to see that all had plenty to eat.

For the youngsters, the evening was compounded of merry amuse with bright pink cheeks, jovial uncles who told marvelous stories, of much laughter, warmth and the cheer of good food... wonderful food. Great platters of cold sliced meats, deep dishes of hot scalloped potatoes, round crystal bowls of the fruits, pickles and relishes put up by grandmother herself, cinnamon buns in which butter, sugar and cinnamon had been laid on with such lavish hand they were literally encased in cinnamon taffy.

And then grandmother's meat pies! They were her special pride. Hers were not deep pies made with cubes of meat. No, grandmother's meat pies were flat, like pumpkin or berry pies. They were made of chopped beef, cannily seasoned with onion and topped by the richest of flaky pastry. When cut into they showed brown and crumbly and glistening, and a generous wedge of that hot steaming pie on your plate on Sunday night was something to look forward to all week. Grandmother's meat pies made their appearance with the first crisp, cold days of autumn and were served all winter thereafter. One pie would have been skimpy fare for that patriarchal gathering. Three, four, five pies, fresh and hot from the oven arrived on the table. The pies were baked on Saturday. Then, on Sunday night it was a simple matter to slide the pies into the oven and reheat them.

Grandmother, of course, taught her daughters to make the pies and she always claimed that those meat pies were mainly responsible for the fine husbands the girls acquired. No man, declared grandmother, could resist a girl who could make a toothsome meat pie like that, and so her lassies had their pick of the lads. That, at least, was grandmother's story.

Well, those meat pies are still being made in the family and probably always will be. There has been just one slight change in the recipe over the years... the addition of the lively tang of tomato. It makes the pie even more flavorful. This tomato flavor is achieved by simply adding condensed tomato soup. Undoubtedly if there had been tomato flavor in such readily available form in grandmother's day she would have used it. A great one for flavor, was grandmother.

Here's how to make this famous pie... and could anything be simpler!

1 lb. ground beef
4 tablespoons of onion, minced
1 can condensed tomato soup
1/2 teaspoon salt
Pinch of pepper
1 tablespoon butter
Short Pastry

Sauté the onion in the butter. Add the chopped beef, condensed tomato soup, salt and pepper. Let simmer gently until the meat is just barely brown. Line pie plate with pastry, pour the mixture into it, cover with pastry, prick the top with a fork, and brush lightly with melted butter. Bake at 375 degrees for one hour.

Use a rich, short, flaky pastry. Or, if you don't feel up to making your own pastry, some of the prepared pastry mixes are a good bet. Good eating is that pie. One word of advice, though... better bake two of them at a time. Young and old men, women and children all pass back for more. It's that kind of pie.

SAVINGS BANK CLOCK IS IN WORKING ORDER AGAIN

The sidewalk clock in front of the Kingston Savings Bank, on Wall street, is again in working order, following the installation of new piping and wiring. The pipe through which the wiring was led under the sidewalk to the clock had become badly rusted from water seeping into it during the dozen or more years since it was laid, and as a result the insulation on the wires had become worn through. The job of drilling through the thick flagstone and concrete and getting through the walls to the bank was a tedious one.

The Well-Dressed Home

You Should Have The World At Home To Keep Track Of Things These Days

By MARY DAVIS GILLIES

Prepared by McCall's Magazine for The Freeman

Just because the world is getting smaller, we have to know more about it. That's why we need the globe as we read the newspaper and that's why globes are coming into so many homes these days.

The globe makers are smart enough not to give us a chance to treat the globe as we used to treat our geography books. Globes now come in fascinating new styles—and fit into any kind of decorative scheme. They come large enough to stand on the floor or small enough for a desk corner or bookcase shelf.

The old, faded amber globes are still good decoration; but more exciting are the new ones with black oceans—much easier to read.

The world all lit up is very popular—the inside of the globe is wired so that it can be studied in the darkest corner, and is really decorative even when it isn't studied. It makes a fine night light for a baby's room.

Whether the room is period or modern in style, there is a globe with the right kind of support in wood or metal finish. For an eighteenth century library, there are the dignified walnut floor cradles and pedestals. For early American rooms, there are appropriate maple stands.

USEFUL DECORATION

Globes are made to harmonize with any home interior now. Here is a modernistic design.

Metal bases are modern or conventional—bronze, chromium and even coral-colored enamel. Several the atlas.

Paint Yourself In Dark Colors When You Pose For A Portrait

By BETTY CLARKE

(AP Feature Service Writer)

When you're being photographed, show your most ladylike self to the lens, says Dorothy Wilding, official English court photographer.

Mill Wilding who has given pointers to the King and Queen of England on how to behave before the camera offers these hints:

Use very little rouge; an overdose will photograph like a couple of black spots. Use face powder at least one or two shades darker than your normal powder. Put on about half your normal quantity of lipstick, and fluff it over with powder to soften the red.

Don't have your hair done the day you're photographed—you'll look "skinned." Have it done a day or so in advance, then comb it to form a frame for your face.

Never wear pure white. Pale pink and pastels are best.

For head and shoulder portraits, never wear jewelry, though bracelets are good, when the hands show, to break that "naked look."

Now Welcomes The New Year

The old year departed at midnight in a swirl of snow and freezing temperatures that welcomed the new year. The freezing temperatures followed several days of mild weather and during the last hours of the old year the mercury dropped as low as 11 degrees above zero.

Show began falling in the late afternoon on Friday and fell throughout the night. This morning several inches of snow had fallen and the storm was still in progress.

Superintendent David Conway cleared out the snowpiles during the night and the main thoroughfares were plowed. This is the first this winter that snow removal equipment had been placed in operation.

Prison Guards Break Up Escape Attempt

Jackson, Mich., Jan. 1 (AP)—

The alertness of guards, Warden Joel Moore said today, frustrated the attempts of five men to escape from the state prison of southern Michigan New Year's Eve.

The frustrated breaks for freedom came while a short circuit darkened floodlights which illuminate the prison walls.

The warden said he believed the men were prepared to try to escape whenever such an emergency arose.

Guards who noticed that a manhole cover had been removed found three men in a sewer extending under a wall. They were Malcolm Siler, 27, of Berrien county; Harvey Gleason, 28, of Calhoun county, and Warren Nelson, 21, of Macomb county. They carried an acetylene torch with which to remove iron bars from the sewer.

A few minutes later, guards detected two men attempting to climb from a cellblock with a small hook ladder. They were George Clar, 28, of Detroit, and Alonzo Blodcoe, 30, of Jackson county. All five surrendered without resistance.

Yokes Fitted to Horns

of Oxen in Nova Scotia

Nova Scotia oxen are never yoked with a bow yoke as is the custom in some countries, but with a head yoke, states a writer in the Rural New-Yorker. This is made from a stout piece of hardwood of the required dimensions, curved over the neck and fitted to the back of the horns. In order to get best results they must fit exactly right. The yoke once in position is securely fastened to the horns by a long stout rawhide strap, several turns around the outside horn are made, then it crosses the front of the head over an ornamental shield. Several turns are then made around the inside horn, and the end of the strap wound around a stout pin on the top of the yoke, which has a cleft into which the end of the strap is finally inserted.

Oxen yoked in this way work steadier, and haul heavier loads than those yoked by the neck. Three miles an hour is about the gait of the average pair of oxen, yet many farmers haul wood to the nearby markets, and logs to the mill.

Far from becoming extinct as many city people suppose, the humble ox in Nova Scotia at least is very much in evidence. Some of the large lumbermen use more than 100 yoke in the woods during the winter. A well-matched, well-trained pair are a source of both pride and profit to their owners.

Commons, Public Land

The common is a piece of land on which the inhabitants of a village have rights in common, says London Answers Magazine. There are two kinds of common. In one, the land has been taken over by the public, generally by a local authority. In the other, the lord of manor and manorial tenants hold some, if not all, of their ancient rights. Between 1707 and 1869 something like 3,000,000 acres of common land was enclosed in England and Wales. But the public were beginning to realize that they were losing, and in 1886 an act was passed forbidding further enclosures in the London police area, and an act of 1876 did something of the kind for the rest of the country. The amount of common land in England and Wales is estimated at 1,500,000 acres. Commons are most frequent in Surrey, where almost every village has one.

Mayor's Message Cites Increases

$147,379.92 in general city indebtedness, and he proposed that the city issue only $140,000 in bonds for home relief and WPA, and that the city debt at the end of the year will then show a decrease of $75,379.92.

1937 Accomplishments

During the past year improvements have been made in streets, sewers and public buildings. Special attention has been given to parks and playgrounds and a recreation program for boys and girls.

The public works board now owns 45 pieces of equipment such as trucks, compressors, shovels, graders, etc. The new municipal garage built as a WPA project now houses this equipment.

Schools of City

The past year the first step was taken in the solution of the city's school problem. He called attention to the new central school now being built, and the new vocational training school will soon be started. Both should be ready by September. This program, he said, should relieve all school congestion.

The new municipal stadium and athletic field was now under construction and it was hoped it would be ready in time for the football season.

Water Improvements

1937 saw the completion of the new million gallon equalizing reservoir on Marius street intended to equalize water pressure throughout the city. There were still about 30 miles of old 4-inch water mains in the city which should be replaced with new 6-inch and 8-inch mains.

Broadway Crossing

The Broadway crossing tragedy in May again focused attention on the necessity of eliminating all grade crossings in the city. A plan for such a program has been filed by the city and will be placed on the official list for consideration in 1938 by the state public service commission.

The administration will vigorously press the city's demand that the plan be placed in operation.

Sewage Disposal

The construction of the new New York city reservoir and diversion of water at Lackawack will have an important effect on the city's method of sewage disposal.

The natural flow of water in the Rondout and the occasional periods of high water tend to dilute the sewage and persistently flush out the creek. When New York city, by reason of its water diversion at Lackawack, reduces the natural flow of water in the creek the city's sewage will not be properly flushed into the river, sludge banks will form in the creek and during periods of low water a public nuisance and unsanitary condition will result.

The State Health Department is now urging to compel cities along the Hudson river to provide sewage disposal plants. The city is expected to file detailed plans by July 1, 1937, and to have the system in operation by December 1, 1940. This will entail an estimated cost of $400,000.

The administration intends to vigorously prosecute, as soon as legally possible, its claim against the city of New York, for any diversion of the waters of the Rondout creek affecting the city's sewage disposal. In the meantime the administration will attempt to negotiate with the city of New York with a view to arriving at some financial settlement to be paid by it to the city of Kingston. If successful this will materially diminish the cost of a sewage disposal plant to the local taxpayers.

Street Lighting

During the past year new street lighting systems were installed uptown and downtown, and the Broadway lights were all increased from 600 to 1,000 candlepower. There has been an increase in candlepower in the street lights since 1935 of 138,440 candlepower.

Tax Collections

Tax collections at the end of the 20-year period continue to equal about 95 per cent of the total tax imposed. During the past 10 years the current collection of taxes during the fiscal year averaged 97 per cent, which is one of the best tax collection records in the state.

Welfare and Relief

The estimated cost for all forms of relief for 1937 is $214,503.50.

There are 353 old age grants in effect, an increase of 11 grants during 1937. These grants average $21.69 per month. The city is supporting 54 children in institutions and foster homes.

The average cost is $4.27 per week for each child. In addition to sums appropriated in the budget for relief it will be necessary and he recommended that $50,000 in home relief bonds and $50,000 in WPA bonds be issued. This will make a total of $140,000, against a total of $239,000 issued in 1937, a decrease of $99,000.

Gasoline Taxes

The past year the county treasurer received $269,176.51 from gasoline taxes from the state as the county's share, much of which was collected from Kingston's citizens.

The state legislature should be petitioned to enact legislation sharing with cities a portion of these gas and motor vehicle tax fees.

Charter Changes

It is surprising that the city gets such efficient government with the antiquated form of government provided for in the city's charter, and it speaks well for the spirit of harmony and co-operation existing between the executive and legislative branches of government.

He recommended that the

MEXICAN LABOR BOARD

SUSPENDS WAGE INCREASES

Mexico City, Jan. 1 (AP)—The government's labor board today suspended application of government decreed wage increases in the oil industry until the supreme court rules on the question.

Sixteen American and British companies, with investments totaling $160,000,000, were involved. They had refused to pay the increase, which were to have gone into effect last midnight, and appealed the ruling of an arbitration board to the supreme court.

The arbitration board December 18 awarded wage increases and other benefits which the companies said would cost them $11,200,000 annually, a burden they said they could not assume. The board said the annual cost would be only $7,200,000.

AGAIN WE RESOLVE TO LEARN TIME'S AGE-OLD LESSONS: FAME IS FLEETING AND ACCLAIM IS BUT A BREEZE IN THE NIGHT; THE RAINBOW IS MORE BEAUTIFUL THAN THE POT OF GOLD AT ITS END; LOVE AND WORK ARE THE SAVOR OF LIFE; THE JOY OF STRIVING IS ITS OWN REWARD . . . MAY NINETEEN THIRTY-EIGHT TEACH US THAT SERVICE IS GREATER THAN SELF. MAY IT BRING US NEW COURAGE FOR THE JOB AND RENEWED FAITH IN OURSELVES. New Year Greeted Throughout City

With noise-makers, clappers, party caps and toasts, the New Year was welcomed by Kingstonsians throughout the city. At midnight horns blew in the city streets, bells rang, and another year was ushered in with much chatter and bang. Dance halls, theatres, and roadhouses were filled to overflowing as everyone made merry and celebrated the coming of another year.

The Officers' Ball held at the New York State Armory was attended by approximately 150 persons. Vari-colored decorations were used in the dance hall. A buffet luncheon was served at midnight and from 2:30 o'clock breakfast was served. Julius Miller's orchestra played for the guests.

The Assembly Dance in the Governor Clinton Hotel proved a popular spot of the evening. It was attended by approximately 125 couples. Ray Randall's orchestra furnished the music. The blues, which were placed in an adjoining room were not enough to meet the demands of the unceasing overflow, and additional blues were set in the Coffee Shop. Many parties preceded both dinner and others having cocktail eggs-nog parties.

The evening was one round of merriment and festivity which will continue today and Sunday, as many parties are given in various homes. This afternoon a tea will be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel, sponsored by the Junior Auxiliary of the Benedictine Hospital. The proceeds from the dance, for which George's orchestra will play, will be used in the work of the group in the Children's Ward in the hospital.

Divine-Tucker
Miss Juliet Tucker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Royal Kenneth Tucker of Brunswick, Ga., and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Divine of Ellenville, were united in marriage at St. Mark's Episcopal church, Brunswick, at five o'clock today afternoon, December 31. The ceremony was performed by the bride's father, rector of St. Mark's Church, in the presence of a large company of relatives and friends. It was a candlelight affair and the only light used during the ceremony came from the bride's candles interspersed among the candles and floral decorations of the church and the arched way to the altar under an arch of crossed banners formed by a military guard of honor composed of local U. S. Army officers. Mrs. Nelson Peterson of San Antonio, Texas, a sister of the bride, was matron of honor; another sister, Miss Royal Tucker, was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Jane Taylor of Ellenville, Miss Sara Johnson of Brunswick, the bride's little niece, Lucie Jackson of San Antonio, Texas, was the flower girl. Lieutenant Divine was attended by his brother, John Divine, Jr., of Ellenville and an Antonio. Groomsmen and ushers were Lieut. Ernest Cable of Mitchell Field, L. I., Chandler Young of Napanoch, Lieut. Nelson Jackson of San Antonio, Frank McCall and Albert Backus of Savannah, Bernard Nightingale and Walton Wilson of Brunswick. The bride entered with her brother-in-law, William S. K. Stage of New York, by whom she was given in marriage. She was lovely in a wedding gown of ivory satin, fashioned on princess lines in empire effect, with long fitted sleeves. The only trimming was a Peter Pan collar of rose point lace, an heirloom in the bride's family and many tiny satin covered buttons fastening the gown on the shoulder, on the left side and at the wrists. Her veil was of ivory illusion tulle, with Juliet cap pearls. The bride's only ornament was a pearl pendant. She carried a white prayer book showered with bride roses and lilies of the valley. The floor length gowns of the attendants were fashioned alike of lustrous taffeta, with low square necks and short puffed sleeves. They wore Juliet caps of velvet. Matching the gowns, finished with matched nose veils. Miss Tucker and Miss Taylor wore gowns of American Beauty taffeta and Mrs. Nelson and Miss Hammons wore of Wallis blue. Following the church ceremony the bride and groom were entertained at a reception at the Ogilthorpe Hotel. Receiving, in addition to the bridal party and Mr. and Mrs. Tucker, were Mr. and Mrs. John H. Divine and Dr. Alice Divine of Ellenville. Parents and aunt of the bridegroom and Mrs. Chester Young of Napanoch, also an aunt, Mrs. Chandler Young of Napanoch, Misses Betty Morton, Julia MacPherson, Gerald Carruthers, Ruth Whittle, Dorothy Powelson and Lawrence Harrell of Brunswick assisted in serving. Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Divine left by motor for New Orleans, arriving from there for Guatemala, visiting Puerto Barrios and spending their honeymoon at Mayan Inn at Chichicastenango and at Guatemala City. After February 15 they will be at home at Mitchell Field, L. I. The bride is a popular and admired member of Brunswick's younger social set and comes from a family that for generations has been esteemed for its prominence in southern cultural and religious circles. Following her graduation from Glynn Academy she completed her education in the north and for some time past has made her home in New York city where she was the recipient of many pre-nuptial social courtesies. Lieutenant Divine, a grandson of the late Major Dwight Divine of Ellenville, following graduation from his home school and from the Class of 1928 of Virginia Military Academy, entered West Point, from which he graduated with high rating in the Class of 1933. He is now serving as first lieutenant in the U. S. Army Air Corps, stationed at Mitchell Field. Before coming north he was stationed at Albrook Field, Panama, where he was aide to General Brett, commanding officer of the Isthmus of Panama.

Spikes On An Oriental Back Fence

By The AP Feature Service
Previously bitter exchanges between Moscow and Tokyo direct the eyes of a war weary world to the frozen plains of north Asia.
There where their backyards meet, Russia and Japan quietly have been strengthening their position. Today it is estimated that nearly half a million armed men are massed on opposite sides of the Manchukuoan border.

Due to the fact that Japan and Russia are settling the war which common folk in both countries hold must not be fought.

Not necessarily.

Despite their snarling at each other, the two powers have just renewed the treaty which gives Japanese the right to fish in Russia's Pacific waters.

Whether that agreement means backing, does not bite is anybody's guess. At least that interpretation stands these two facts. That Japan fighting a major war in China is willing to spare 455,000 soldiers for a mere border patrol that Russia despite a possible German threat on the west, is pouring money and steel into submarine

ELK, BISON ROAMED EAST CENTURY AGO

Panthers Still Survive in the Alleghenies.

Washington, D. C.—It is barely a century since elk and bison became extinct in the Alleghenies. Both were abundant in George Washington's day, according to Dr. Remington Kellogg, Smithsonian Institution mammalogist, whose report on the present day mammals of West Virginia, together with a report on the birds of the state by Dr. Alexander Wetmore, has just been made public by the United States museum.

It had become apparent in the course of recent studies that the birds and small mammals of West Virginia were poorly represented in the national museum and other museums, and that knowledge of the ranges and habits of the birds and animals was based largely on assumption or on scattered records casually obtained.

County Histories Studied.

The national museum, therefore, undertook in 1936 a definite program of field work to obtain more complete and definite information on the West Virginia fauna. The work on birds added much data on distribution of the various forms and led to the discovery of a new race of song sparrow. The study of the mammals led to the publication of the present report, which is a complete list of the mammals known to be present either now or formerly in West Virginia.

The animals are the opossum, three species of moles, six of shrews, ten of bats, black bear, raccoon, eastern fisher, two species of weasels, two of minks, otter, three species of skunk, two of foxes, gray wolf, cougar, bobcat, woodchuck, chipmunk, six species of squirrel, beaver, thirteen species of mice, three of rats, rock vole, muskrat, porcupine, varying here, two species of cottontail rabbits, white-tail deer, elk and bison.

Besides seeking for the living fauna Dr. Kellogg searched county histories and old diaries for the most recent references to the larger creatures who were unable to hold their ground against man. The last record of bison, he found, was in 1825.

LOTTERY BRAINS

"Brains" of million-dollar lottery was the term applied to Manny Schwartz (above) and two companions by federal agents in Boston. The trio were arrested as fugitives from justice in New York. They are under indictment in Syracuse for conspiracy to transport lottery tickets interstate.

Woman Building Town in Middle of the Desert

Salome, Ariz.—Mrs. Addie Lee Van Orsdel probably is the only woman in the United States who controls the destiny of an entire community.
Mrs. Van Orsdel is president of her own improvement company, founded several years ago to carry out plans originated by Salome's founder, Dick Wick Hall, to build a modern community and tourist resort in the middle of the desert.

Early Tiles Handmade.

The earliest tiles were made by impressing the soft clay of the half made tile with a pattern, and when the clay was dry, this impressed design was filled with a white slip. The entire surface was then covered with a powdered lead oxide and given a baking the lead forming a transparent yellow glaze. Old Spanish tiles were all of an inch thick. These were pressed by hand only, and do not have the hard, close compression of the machine-made tile. In the old process the tiles were sun dried after hand pressing and then painted.

1937 "Best Health Year."

New York.—On the basis of mortality statistics for the first ten months of this year, 1937 promises to be the best "health year" ever experienced in this country, the Metropolitan Life Insurance company announces.
The statistics, compiled from records of the 17,500,000 industrial policy holders of the company, show a cumulative death rate of 8.3 for each 1,000 for the period from all causes combined—a lower rate than that for any previous similar period. New low mortality rates were registered for seven specific diseases: typhoid fever, scarlet fever, diphtheria, tuberculosis, syphilis (including locomotor ataxia and general paralysis of the insane), chronic nephritis and diseases incidental to pregnancy and childbirth.

Battle of Waterloo

The battle of Waterloo was fought June 18, 1815, between the French under Napoleon Bonaparte and the combined forces of England, Germany and the Netherlands under the duke of Wellington and resulted in the utter overthrow of Napoleon and the restoration of the Bourbon kings to the French throne. That battlefield was in Belgium, about two miles from the village of Waterloo, and twelve miles south of Brussels.

HIGHWAY BUILDING TOPS 22,000 MILES

New Year's Record Set for United States.

Washington—More than 22,000 miles of all classes of highway were completed in the fiscal year 1937, topping the former record of 21,700 miles in 1934, the bureau of public roads of the Department of Agriculture reports.

The average for the last five years under emergency appropriations to provide employment to those on relief rolls has been about 20,000 miles a year.

"Although the volume of such work remained large, the past year was definitely a period of transition from an emergency program to the more normal federal aid road construction operations," the bureau stated.

"Emergency funds available for new projects were reduced to a small remainder at the end of the year. Considerable emergency work under construction was carried over into the new year and when this is completed the emergency program will have been practically concluded."

Near-Normal Program Scope.

The more nearly normal program includes $125,000,000 for improvement of the federal aid system, $25,000,000 for secondary or farm-to-market roads and $50,000,000 for elimination of hazards at grade crossings in the fiscal years 1938 and 1939.

Funds for federal-aid and secondary roads must be matched by the states, but the funds for elimination of crossing hazards are direct grants.

Grade crossing work in the fiscal year 1937 established a new record, with 1,149 eliminations, of which 1,086 were financed under the $200,000,000 program authorized by the emergency relief appropriation act of 1935.

Also 196 existing grade separation structures were reconstructed and 574 crossings were protected by safety devices.

In road building 18,768 miles were constructed with funds apportioned to the states and the work was done in cooperation with the state highway departments.

At the end of the year 11,274 miles of road, to take $268,445,582 of federal funds, were under contract and 2,074 miles, involving $36,542,365, had been approved but not yet contracted for.

Unobligated balances available for new work totaled $2,053,008 in large part newly apportioned funds for the fiscal year 1938.

Inter-American Progress.

The bureau said that work on the 3,250 mile Inter-American highway extending from Nuevo Laredo on the Texas border to Panama City, had continued with increased momentum, impassable gaps having been reduced to about 500 miles.

Improvements also were completed on 139 miles of the Forest highway system, bringing the total improved with federal funds to 6,593 miles. In national parks, parkways and monuments 169 miles of roads were completed, bringing the total to 1,293 miles.

Physicians Graft Bone

Using Carpenter Tools

Philadelphia—Physicians at Osteopathic hospital here were forced to set aside surgical instruments and use a set of carpenter tools to perform a delicate bone grafting operation.

Mrs. Lillian Tappin, sixty years old, suffered a broken arm in an automobile accident about a year and a half ago. The bone never set right because of injured nerves.

Drs. Edward G. Drew, Carl Frey and Robert Warden used a cold chisel, hammer, electric saw and drill to take a piece of bone from her right leg and graft it to her useless arm.

With the saw, the physicians cut away two grooves in the woman's leg parallel to the shin bone. They used the chisel and hammer to lift out a splinter of bone six inches long and a half-inch thick.

Cord of Wood Changes in Crossing State Line

Moorhead, Minn.—What the citizens of Moorhead and Fargo, N. D., would like to know is how much is a cord of wood?

Complaints reached officials at the adjoining towns concerning discrepancies in the measurement of sawed and split wood. The officials looked into the problem and found the cause of complaints.

The Minnesota law calls for 128 cubic feet when the wood is cut in four-foot lengths, 160 cubic feet if sawed under 4 feet, and 176 cubic feet if sawed and split.

But in Fargo the law specifies 128 cubic feet as a cord, and if sawed into twenty-inch lengths 150 cubic feet must be delivered.

Books printed before 1500 are known as incunabula.

Fish, Game Group Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Ulster County Fish and Game Protective Association for the election of officers and such other general business as may come before the meeting will be held in the city hall on Monday, January 4, at 8 p. m.

A number of problems of interest to the sportsmen at large will be presented and will be open for discussion. brought up at this meeting will be the success of other states in opening up territory to the hunter and fisherman which has been closed. The possibility of having a game warden present when fish and game are received from state is recommended as another article which would create a lot of interesting discussion.

The principal subjects of interest which were taken up at the first meeting of the New York State Conservation Council will be briefly sketched if time permits. Many of these topics will show what other states and clubs are doing to provide better sporting facilities for the sportsmen.

- 2 We sell only merchandise that belongs in the jewelry store—precious stones, precious metals, fine watches, etc.
- 3 We believe that the only true bargain is real value for your money.
- 4 We will not lower our standards to meet the low prices of inferior merchandise. Our prices are fair.
- 5 Our expert advice costs you nothing. We would rather tell you the truth and lose one sale than lose you as a customer for good.

IN THE 80's

AND 90's before the dawn of the motor age, and when the bicycle represented frivolity's peak, life was safer and accidents fewer. Today the need for accident and health insurance is apparent enough to those who understand statistics on sickness, injuries and accidental death.

Don't put off getting that accident and health insurance.
